The President's Corner

by Susan Foster

For twenty-two years our little family had fairly structured Christmas celebrations – when we were home in Maceo we spent Christmas Eve with Jim's family and Christmas Day with my parents. But, after our daughter married we came face to face with in-laws who lived in other towns – in other states! When our son married, the situation became more complicated! He too, married a "foreigner"! Someone from a town over four hours away! Soon, it became apparent that we would have to make some new rules.....We sorted through the four major holidays of the year and divided them between the in-laws. Every other year we would have all the children at our house for Christmas, Easter, Thanksgiving and July 4th. So far, this has worked fairly well.

This year was our year to have everyone for Christmas. I decided that it might be nice to do something a little different. In January we all started putting money away for a Christmas trip. We had some frequent flyer miles so we put them to use and took our family to Mexico for the week before Christmas. We promised to not buy gifts for each other, but instead, to give each other the gift of time.

In fact, it was one of the nicest Christmases I've spent! We sat on the beach, ate good food and played games. It was relaxing and although there was Christmas music playing in the background, we didn't feel the pressure of the season that seems to invade our very souls here in the states.

I hope you and your family had a wonderful holiday season with your family and friends and I would like to wish you the very best for 2005. We will keep those in Thailand, Sri Lanka, Sumatra and Indonesia in our thoughts and prayers as they try to get their lives together in the wake of the tsunami that has wrecked havoc on their countries.

Julia Clark Whelan – Elgin, Illinois

Julia Clark Whelan passed from this world on November 10, 2004. She was born on August 29, 2004 in Elgin, Illinois. Her birth announcement appeared in the last issue of our newsletter.

Julia was the daughter of Michael Patrick and Eleanor Chouteau Bond Whelan of Elgin, Illinois and the sister of young Frederick Whelan. Her grandparents Richard and Christy Hawes Bond of Wayne, Illinois are long-time association members and she was the 5th great-granddaughter of Richard and Clary Walker Hawes and the 6th great-granddaughter of William and Julia Clark.

Julia Clark Whelan had appeared to be in perfect health and her loss is especially sad. Below is a short tribute written by Julia's grandmother Christy Hawes Bond.

Julia Clark Whelan

August 29, 2004 – November 10, 2004

Her survivors are very sad to report the death on November 10th of Julia Clark Whelan, daughter of Eleanor Bond and Michael Patrick Whelan of Elgin, Illinois, from sudden infant death syndrome. Not twelve weeks old, Julia was much loved by family and friends, especially her eighteen-month old brother Freddie (Frederick William Whelan). Julia's engaging smile, early at six weeks, touched all who knew her. Ellie and Mike have become active with a local SIDS organization. Julia was the great granddaughter of Richard Simrall Hawes, III, of St. Louis, who was in turn the great great grandson of Richard and Clara (Walker) Hawes.

HAWES DNA STUDY

Shortly after your October newsletter was in the mail, a DNA study to attempt to find our Hawes family's connection back to our English ancestors was begun.

"Our primary goal is to identify the English roots of Samuel Hawes I, the Virginia Hawes line ancestor living in colonial Virginia in 1704, when he left the Quit Rent Rolls.

A secondary goal of our study as we proceed is to help participants, not already familiar with their Hawes roots, to identify with their particular Hawes group. We now realize that patterns will develop as more Hawes surnamed males are tested."

The paragraph above contains a version of the stated goals for the Hawes DNA study posted at our website on the Internet, although our newsletter will keep you up-to-date. Those of you having access to the Internet may find the web page to follow the study by going online to the following URL:

<http://www.familytreedna.com/public/hawesroots>

Participants so far are: descendants of Isaac Hawes, Sr. and Samuel Hawes II, the two sons of Samuel Hawes I of Caroline County, Virginia; a descendant of John Hawes & his wife Desire Gorham (John is the only son of Edmond Hawes of Massachusetts, "the cutler arriving there in 1635 on the ship James"); and descendants of John Hawes of Suffolk County, England.

The Suffolk County, England descendants participating in our study are very excited about the possibility of a match to our Virginia Hawes line and they look forward to adding a whole new line to their family history. They have long believed that there were colonial American descendants of their family, but they just haven't been able to identify them. They have been generous with their family history and participation. The group of cousins in their family that I am in touch with wanted to be tested, but only two have the Hawes surname. Those two have tested; one lives in England and the other in Australia.

The descendant of John Hawes & Desire Gorham, taking part in our study, is an individual who values his privacy. But he was willing to be tested so that we might prove or disprove a connection to his ancestors. Raymond G. Hawes, author of "Edmond Hawes and his American Descendants" and other family history books, helped me locate this Hawes gentleman.

Enough results of testing are not available for comparison to other Hawes lines at this time. But we may begin to see matches as early as the latter part of January, as more results are returned from the University of Arizona laboratory. Joe D. Hawes of Port O'Connor, Texas, my uncle, was the first participant to volunteer and to return his self-administered test and our eldest participant so far is William E. Hawes of Leonardtown, Maryland, the elder brother of Helen Hawes Hudgins and one of the earliest members of our Hawes Family Association. Joe D. & William E. Hawes matched each other exactly on the first 12-markers. We have a few other volunteers waiting for DNA test kits. We need more. Participants in the current study must be Hawes surnamed and male. For every Hawes surnamed man saying yes to testing, there have been ten saying no. But as the study proceeds and more Hawes men are tested, we should find patterns that will help us identify our English connection. As a by-product of the study, we may help other Hawes people identify their English ancestry, even though it may differ from ours.

The name of each participant will not be posted on our web page with results. The results of testing are for comparison to each other, to find DNA matches back many generations into the past.

A few participants have paid for their own tests. I have paid for some of them from personal funds. You may donate funds for this DNA study and they will be appreciated. One Y-DNA 37 marker test costs $229.00 + $2.00 shipping and handling. Donations will provide funding for more participants in this on-going study.

The Daughters of Samuel Hawes I

The children of Samuel and Elizabeth Anne Spencer Hawes were born in this order, according to tradition: Isaac, Mary, Elizabeth, Eunice and Samuel II. With the exception of Eunice "Nicey" we know less about their daughters, than their sons. They are not listed on pages 5 & 6 in birth order because I had to make them fit into the available space. There must be information somewhere that will add to what we know about the sisters of Isaac Hawes, Sr. and Samuel Hawes II.

Mary married Elijah Daniel, the son of William Daniel, Jr. and Elizabeth Coleman. I would like to know where Mary's mother-in-law fits into the Coleman family. I do not know the names of any of Mary's grandchildren and I am not sure that all of her children are listed.

Elizabeth married Thomas Coghill, the youngest child of Frederick & Sarah Goss Coghill. Thomas's older sister Mary married Isaac Hawes, Sr. We can trace some of Elizabeth's descendants to the 5th generation. The second wife of Elizabeth's son William Coghill was Kezia Coleman, daughter of Thomas & Millicent Winn Coleman. One grandson, William Goodwin Coghill married Polly Samuell, the daughter of Anthony & Sarah Coleman Samuell. One granddaughter Elizabeth A. Coghill married Thomas B. Coleman on 09 Dec 1798. Whom are the parents of Thomas B. Coleman?

Nicey married John Coleman, Sr., the son of Robert & Mary Clayton Coleman. We have up to nine generations of her descendants, the most for any of the Samuel Hawes I daughters.

Most likely all of the Colemans connected by marriage to the three daughters of Samuel & Elizabeth Anne Spencer Hawes can be traced back to a common ancestor. Someone may already have traced that connection. Have you?

Dear Family and Friends,

Richard Joseph "Dick" Haase is one of our new memorial members. His daughter Virginia Haase McCleary arranged for his memorial membership and also became one of the newest members of our association. Virginia's father, Dick Haase was the one whom drew the layout to scale, of our Hawes cemetery years ago, that many of you have. Virginia's husband is Gene McCreary. He tells me that his McCreary family is from the South and not connected to the Kentucky McCreary family. I am so happy to welcome Dick's daughter as a new member. Her father was a long-time Hawes association member. We are happy to have you, Virginia.

Julia Clark Whelan is our other new memorial member. Her grandmother Christy Hawes Bond arranged for her membership. I wish that I could include the picture she sent me of this precious little girl. She was such a beautiful baby and her sweet smile could have captivated the hardest of hearts. I am keeping the photograph here at my desk.

Martin Lamment IV of Missouri is the uncle of Christy Hawes Bond, our long-time member and she made of gift of membership to him. We are so happy to have you as a new member, Martin.

Robert B. "Bob" Powers, Jr. contacted me as a result of my posting on the internet at the Hawes Family Forum about the Hawes DNA study. He is a descendant of Albert Gallatin Hawes and his second wife Adelle Combe and lives in West Valley City, Utah. He will receive a complimentary copy of this issue of our newsletter and he & I plan to exchange family information in the future. He visited Louisville, Kentucky and the Hawes Family Cemetery near Owensboro in 2004. He will try to make it to the Hawes-Thompson reunion this year.

I am trying to finish my family history book, "The Hawes Family of Virginia and Their Allied Families," so that I might have it printed this year. Naturally, I am hopeful that I will be able to provide our Hawes connection to our English ancestors in the book. Only time will give you and I an answer to that question.

Speaking of books. Helen Hawes Hudgins book, "The Richard Hawes Family of Kentucky," reprint is on my list of things to do this year. So far less than ten of you have said that you might be interested in a reprint, once you know the price. I know that there are probably some others wanting to get copies for your children or grandchildren or for your local library. Will you please let me know of your interest by the end of February? Expressing your interest will not be binding. When I know the cost, I will let you know individually and you will have the opportunity to say yeah or nay at that time. The copy will be somewhat smaller in size, because I am planning to have it printed on both sides of the paper. It will be soft-cover.

Thank you for the Christmas cards and notes. I have a tough few weeks ahead of me, but after that I will do my best to answer you.

Next quarter I will let each of you know where you stand on your association dues. So many of you asked. I glanced at the membership book this week and I can see that I need to do a better job of keeping you informed.

Love and best wishes for a wonderful new year. 2005? Time flies. I can remember when my years went slowly by. It took me forever to reach the age of sixteen. Now the years fly.

Sincerely,
